Today's lesson is going to cover something I had had no interest in until I started looking into it. Some people might already know a lot about it, and others may have heard something about it sometimes. Still, some of you may not be aware of it or the word at all. What I'm talking about is the growing trend of cosplay.

Cosplay comes from the words costume and play, and just as it sounds, it is short for costume play. The people who take part in it love it, and so do the people who are around and looking at them.

People who cosplay dress up as their favorite characters from movies, video games, and comic books. Basically, they wear clothes, makeup, and other things to make themselves look like those characters. Some people are so into it that they walk, talk, and even act like those characters when they are in costume. If they are really good, they can even win big prizes at cosplay events around the world.

What started as a hobby has now become a big part of popular culture and the fashion world. We'll see later on how the Internet brings cosplay to people everywhere.

 (C) Picture books.
 (D) Famous paintings.

(39~40)

What colors do you like? Red? Green? Or blue? In fact, colors not only affect our daily life but are widely used in our language.

For example, if a man has "a green thumb," then he must be very good at gardening. He surely has a beautiful garden. If a person is "feeling blue," that means he is unhappy and sad. We need to cheer him up. And did you ever tell a "white lie"? If you want to say goodbye to your boyfriend and don't want to hurt his feelings, then you have to tell him a white lie.

See? Colors are often used in our language. Don't you think they are interesting?

However, people who are color-blind cannot see the difference between one color and another. For example, red, green, and yellow look like gray to them. Some of them may see red as green, others see blue as yellow. This is quite inconvenient because they can't see the correct colors of the traffic lights and can't drive a car. They also have problems using computers.

Parents may notice their child is color-blind when the child is learning the colors. They can use color-blindness test, along with other eye tests, to check their child's eyes.

 (C) When someone is responsible for others.
 (D) When someone doesn't want to hurt others.
