(Q33-35)

Hi, Kitty's friends:

I'm now having a good time with my classmates in Taiwan. We are having a barbecue at their places tonight. Today is the Moon Festival. On this holiday, people here eat a special cake and have a barbecue in the evening and family and friends get together to share great food and watch the beautiful full moon. In fact, people in Taiwan enjoy food together on their big holidays in a year. And these holidays fall on a different date every year. For example, people eat a big dinner on Chinese New Year's Eve. It usually falls in the late January and February. Fifteen days later, they have round Yuanxiao on the Lantern Festival. People can eat it hot or cold. In April, people prepare food for their dead family members and then eat it. In June, they make and eat rice dumplings on Dragon Boat Festival. Then it's the Moon Festival in September. Hey! Here is my idea : I am coming back to the USA next month. Then I can join you there and enjoy great holidays in November and December! I just can't wait!
